

College Radio Club Obtains Ham Radio License for Emergency Use

Continuing its functions as a community college, El amino has recently announced it is ready and able to meet community needs in case of a national or local disaster.

Latest achievement is the addition of an amateur ham radio station, which now operates under the call numbers of WOTVC.

In case of an emergency, this station can act as a communication center for the local citizens. It has already reached such far off places as Buenos Aires, Panama City, Quito, Ecuador and various states within the United States.

Now, along with present facilities which will accommodate the needs of housing and feeding during an emergency, the college can act as an information center if roads are blocked, if phone lines are cut, fires start or any other happening of this type takes place.

Along with the regular sending and receiving of messages and calls, the station will also have a medium frequency set up for telegraph, which will cover the entire United States.

When the Federal Communications Commission clears the call WNHFM for the El Camino Radio Club, this will be the number instead of the aforementioned WOTVC.

The FC does not sanction stations for colleges or universities. The Radio Club will be listed as the official ham center.

Lab Checks Fag As Suspect Held

A cigarette, believed by police to contain marijuana, allegedly was found on a suspect when he was booked on a drunk charge Friday night, according to Torrance officials.

Sentenced to five days in jail Saturday by City Judge Otto B. Willett was Joel Romero Payares, who will rest in the clinic while crime lab men attempt to determine if the cigarette contains any of the powerful drug.

South Atlantic, Gulf State Natives Meet

The South Atlantic and Gulf States' picnic will be held at Sycamore Grove Park, Los Angeles, on Saturday, June 14. Dr. Leigh Watson of Virginia and J. W. Lutes of Alabama will be in charge of the reunion, starting at 10:30 a.m.
